Art Unit: 1755

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-7, 10, 15, 18-23, and 26-33, drawn to a starch, classified in class 536, subclass 102.
- II. Claims 8, 16, 24, and 34, drawn to a gypsum slurry, classified in class 106, subclass 772.
- III. Claims 9, 17, 25, and 35, drawn to a gypsum wallboard ("drywall"), classified in class 52, subclass 344+.
- IV. Claims 36-45, drawn to a method of making a starch composition, classified in class 106, subclass 125.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II and I and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product, and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.05(j)). In the instant case, the intermediate product (starch) is deemed to be useful as another materially different process such as a composition for adhesives, paper coating binder, moisture barriers in packaging, etc. and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct because there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants.

Inventions I and IV are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the acid starch product can be made by a materially different process using different acid for treatment of starch, different amounts, and different treating temperatures than those claimed.

Note: These Groups I and IV could potentially be rejoinable under In re Ochiai but that requires selection of the product (starch of Group I) and upon allowance of the Group I product claims the process claims to rejoined must be of the same exact scope.

Inventions II and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product, and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.05(j)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a quick set cement, Portland cement retarder, soil conditioner, molds, surgical casts, etc. and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct because there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants.

Inventions II and IV and III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions have different designs, modes of operation, and effects and are patentably distinct as shown by their mutually exclusive characteristics. Starch itself does not need to be used in a process of making a gypsum slurry and/or later to be used for wallboard (drywall) but can be used as an adhesive or many other uses starches are conventionally known for usage in the art.

Art Unit: 1755

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
